

CHECK FOR IRRIGATION TECHNOLOGY CENTER

Brent Bottlinger, left, outgoing TTIA president presents a $2500 check to Guy Fipps, Texas A&M University, for the new Irrigation Technology Center to be built in San Antonio. The check will be used as a contribution toward a development plan. The center purpose will be to help the irrigation industry become more efficient through development of rigorous design standards and full-scale testing of agricultural and landscape irrigation equipment.